Best Sports Coverage

The Prince George Citizen

Citizen readers are fortunate to have a weekly paper with a full sports section. It's something we instituted after the paper was purchased by local owners because we knew our print readers like coverage of local sports that goes beyond scores and schedules.

Reporter Ted Clarke, a veteran sportswriter, carries most of the load. While his beat also includes news coverage, he still manages to bring our readers extensive game coverage of our two hockey teams (WHL and BCHL) as well as reports on high school, college and university games, junior football and the sports that define Prince George winters: Cross-country skiing and biathlon.

But the sports beat isn't Ted's alone. Reporter Christine Dalgleish — herself an accomplished Masters athlete — brings our readers solid coverage of Special Olympics and the local track and field club's achievements.

Our submissions reflect the variety of coverage in our sports pages.
